ABOUT US

About Traffic rules

TrafficRules.be is a website by Vias institute. This platform brings together the traffic regulations, relevant road traffic legislation and accompanying explanations, making them easily, quickly and clearly accessible to the general public. For this public interest mission, Vias institute is supported by the Federal Public Service Mobility and Transport. In addition, Vias institute, as it does through other channels, offers relevant training courses for professionals, operating on a market conform basis.

Vias institute is an independent knowledge institute dedicated to improving road safety, mobility, and societal safety. It is primarily known to the general public as the driving force behind the BOB campaigns against alcohol in traffic and for providing insights to the media on current traffic and mobility events.

About Vias institute

Vias Institute has been working for more than 30 years towards a safer and more liveable society. As a neutral and independent centre of knowledge and expertise, we combine scientific research, data analysis and innovative technologies to improve mobility, road safety and societal safety in Belgium. Our 230 employees are committed every day to turning knowledge, research and hands-on experience into concrete solutions and high-impact policy recommendations.

Through our knowledge centre, technical laboratories, evaluation and coaching programmes, the CARA driving fitness centre and the Vias academy, we support policymakers, companies, the police, the justice system, researchers and citizens. We analyse trends and mobility data, develop new research methods and encourage behavioural change to promote smart, sustainable and safe mobility. In doing so, we help build a society in which everyone can move safely, responsibly and smoothly.

The team

The team currently managing the website trafficrules.be consists of:

Philip Road Safety Expert	Fanny Road Safety and Mobility Advisor	Jonathan Road Safety and Mobility Advisor

We are responsible for the content and design of the website and, together with the marketing team, handle communication, such as newsletters and social media posts.

Where does the content come from?

The various regulations on Traffic rules are taken directly from the Belgian official journal, where both federal and regional legislation is published. Thanks to daily monitoring of the Belgian official journal, the website's content is constantly updated, ensuring that new or amended regulations are made available as quickly as possible.

Although the regulations on this website are taken directly from the Belgian Official Gazette, only the publications in the Belgian official journal are legally valid.

The pages with explanations on various aspects of traffic regulations are based on publications, brochures, and briefings from Vias institute, which are grounded in scientific and legal research.
